A HARVEST SCENE.

Dr. Talmage's Sunday Sermon in Glenwood Springs, Col.

BEAUTIFUL STORY OF RUTH.

The Sermon Suggested by His Constant View of Harvest Scenes on His Tour,

Which Has Been One Continued Ovation Traveling in a Special Coach, Fitted Up for Himself and Secretary-The Sermon.

Special to the Gazette. GLENWOOD, SPRINGS, Col., Aug. 2.—Dr. Falmage preached here to-day to an inf-mense audienc. His Western tour has mense audienc. His Western tour has been one continued ovation. Never before has he been so enthusiastically received or have the people come to hear him in such vast numbers. He arrived here from Pueblo, which city he left on Wednesday last in a car provided by the railroad company exclusively for the use of Dr. Talunge and his secretary. In this car he will visit cities in Colorado, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Kansas and Utah. It is side-tracked at places where Dr. Talunge has arranged to stay to preach or lecture. His sermon redolent with the breath of the great harvest-fields of the West indicates that the popudolont with the breath of the great narvest-lields of the West indicates that the popu-lar preacher has read in his surroundings aggestions of gospel leasons. His text is taken from Ruth, it 2: "And she went and came and gleaned in the field after the reapers; and her hap was to light on a part of the field belonging unto Boaz who was of the kindred of Elimelech."

I have been in North Carolina, Virginia,
Penunsylvania, New York, Obio, Michigan,
Canada, Indiana, Hilmois, Kentucky, Missouri and they are one great harvest-field, nd no season can be more enchanting in and no season can be more embanding in any country than the season of harvest.

The time that Ruth and Naomi arrive at Bethiehem is harvest-time. It was the custom when a sheaf fell in the harvest-field for the reapers to refuse to gather it up; that it was to be left for the poor who much harvest-come that way. If there mp; that it was to be left for the poor who might happen to come that way. If there were handfuls of grain scattered across the field after the main harvest had been reaped, instead of raking it, as farmers do now, it was, by the custom of the land, left in its place, so that the poor, coming along that way, might glean it and get their bread. But, you say, "What is the use of all these narvest-fields to Ruth and Naomi? Naomi is too old and feeble to go out and toll in the sun; and can you expect that in the sun; and can you expect that h, the young and the beautiful, should her cheeks and blister her hands in the

AU. THAT WAS AN EVENTED, DAY?

It was love at first sight. Boar forms an trachment for the womanly gleaner—an trachment full of undying interest to the burch of God in all ages; while Ruth, sith an ophab, or nearly a bushel, of barge, goes home to Naomi to tell her the suss and adventures of the day. That who left her native land Vesses and adventures of the day. Unit Bath, who left her native land of Moab in darkness, and journeves through an undying affection for her mother-in-law, is in the harvest field of Boaz, is affianced to one of the best families in Judah, and becomes in after time the ancestress of Jesus Christ the Lord of glory! Out of so dark a night did there ever dawn so bright a morning!

Therm, in the first place, from this subject how trouble developes character. It was bereavement, poverty and exile that ject how trouble developes character. It was bereavement, poverty and exile that developed illustrated and announced to all ages the sublimity of Ruth's character. That is a very unfortunate man who has no trouble. It was sorrow that made John Bunyan the better dreamer, and Dr. Young the better poet, and O'Connell the better crator, and Bishop Hall the better preacher, and Havelock the better soldier, and Kitto he better encyclopedist, and Ruth the bet-

NEYER HAD ANY TROUBLE.

When misfortune comes upon him, his style will be different." After awhile the Lord took a child out of that pastor's house; and though the preacher was just as brilliant as he was before, oh, the warmth, the tenderness of his discourses! The fact is that trouble is a great educator. You see some times a musician sit down at an instrumen and his execution is cold and formal and un being. The reason is that all his life he as been prespected. But let misfortune up bereavement come to that man, and he sits down at the instrument, and you disover the pathos in the first sweep of the heys. A young doctor comes into a sickroom where there is a dying child. Perhaps he is very rough in his prescription, and very rough in his manner, and rough in the feeling of the bulse, and rough in his answer to the mother's anxious question; but the years roll on, and there has been one dead years you on, and there has occasione dead ie his own bouse; and now he comes into the sickroom, and with tearful eye he looks at the dying child, and he says. "Oh, how this reminds me of my Charlie." Trouble, the great educator! Sorrow—I see its touch in the grandest painting; I hear its trough in the sweetest song; I feel its ower in the mightiest argument.

said that the fountain of Hyppocrene was struck out by the foot of the winged horse, Pegasus I have often noticed in life that the brightest and most beautiful fountains of Christian confort and spiritual life have been struck out by the iron shod, hoof of disaster and alamity. I see Danfel's courage best by he flash of Nebuchadnezzar's furnace. I he hash of Medichamber is furnise. I be Paul's prowess best when I find him on the foundering ship under the glare of the ghtning in the breakers of Melita. God rowns his children amid the howling of vild beasts and the chopping of blood-piashed guillotine and the crackling fires of martyrdom. It took all the hostilities against the Scotch covenanters and the fury of Lord Claverhouse to develop James Renwick, and Andrew Meiville and Hugh McKall, the glorions martyrs of Scotch history. It took the stormy sea, and the December blast, and the desolute New England coast, and the war-whoop of savages to show forth the prowess of the pilgrim fathers.

It took all our past national distresses, and it takes all our present national sorraws, to lift up our nation on that high carear when it will manch along after the reer where it will march along after the foreign despoilsms that have mocked and the tyrannies that have feered, shall be swept down under the omnipotent wrath of God, who hates, oppression and who, by the strength of his own red right arm, will make all men free. And so it is individu-ally, and in the family, and in the church, and in the world, that through darkness and storm and trouble men, women, churches.

Again, I see in my text the beauty of unfaltering friendship. I suppose there were plenty of friends for Naomi while she was in prosperity; but of all her acquaintances, how many were willing to trudge off with her toward Judea, when she had to make that lonely journey! One—the heroine of my text. One—absolutely one. I suppose when Naomi's husband was living, and they when Naomi's husband was living, and they had plenty of money, and all things went well, they had a great many callers; but I suppose that after her husband dled, and callers. All the birds that sang in the bower while the sun shone have gone to their nests, now the night has fallen.

Oh, these beautiful sun-flowers that spread out their color in the morning hour! but they are always asleep when the sun is going down! Job had plenty of friends when he was the richest man in Uz; but when his property went and the trials came, then there were none so much that pestered as Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bilded, the Shuhite, and Zoohar the Nauman thite.

Life often seems to be a mere game. where the successful player pulls down all the other men into his own lap. LET SUSPICIONS ARISE

LET SUSPICIONS ARISE about a man's character and he becomes like a bank in a panic, and the imputations rush on him and break down in a day that character which in due time would have had strength to defend itself. There are reputations that have been half a century in building, which go down under some moral exposure, as a vast temple is consumed by the touch of a sulphurous match.
A hog can uproot a century plant. In this world, so full of heartlessness and hypocrisy, how thrilling it is to find some friend as faithful in days of adversity as in days of prosperity! David had such a friend in Hushai; the Jews had such a friend in Hushai; the Jews had such a friend in Mordecal, who never forgot their cause; Paul had such a friend in Onesiphorus, who visited him in juli; Christ had such in the Marys, who adherred to him on the cross;
Naomi had such a one in Ruth, who cried out: "Entreat me not to leave thee, or to "Entreat me not to leave thee, or to on: Find the not to have thee, or to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest I will go; and where thou lodgest I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God; where thou diest will I die, and there will I be buried; the Lord do so to me, and more also if anoth but death year thee and me?

also, if aucht but death part, thee and me."

Again, I learn from this subject that paths which open in hardship and darkness often come out in places of for. When Ruth started from Moab toward Jerusalem, to go along with her mother-in-law, I suppose the people said: "Oh, what a foolish creature to go away from her father's house, to go off with a poor old woman toward the land of Judea! They won't live to GET ACROSS THE DESERT.

They will be drowned in the sea, or the seems of the wilderness will destroy jacknis of the wilderness will destroy them." It was a very dark morning when Kuth started off with Naomi; but behold her in my text in the harvest-field of Bonz, to be affianced to one of the lords of the land, and become one of the grandmothers of Jesus Christ, the lord of glory. And so it often is that a path which starts very darkly ends very brightly.

When you started out for heaven, oh how dark was the hour of conviction—how Sinai thundered, and devils tormented, and the darkness thickened! All the sins of the darkness thickened! All the sins o your life pounced upon you, and it was the your life pounced upon you, and it was the darkest hour you ever saw when you first found out your sins. After awhile you went into the harvest-field of God's merey; you began to glean in the fields of divine promise, and you had nove sheaves than you could carry, as the voice of God addressed you, saying: "Blessed is the min whose transgressions are forgiven and whose sins are covered." A very dark starting in conviction, a very bright ending in the pardon and the hope, and the triumph of the gospel."

So, very often in our worldly business or in our spiritual career, we start off on a very dark path. We must go. The fiesh may shrink back, but there is a voice within, or a voice from above, saying: "You must go;" and we have to carry the cross, and we have to tra-have to carry the cross, and we have to tra-verse the desert, and we are pounded and failed of misrepresentation and abuse, and we have to urge our way through ten thou-sand obstacles that have to be slain.

We have to ford the river, we have to climb the mountain, we have to storm the castle; but, blessed be God, the day of rest and reward will come. On the tip-top of the captured battlements we will shout the victory; if not in this world, then in that world where there is no gall to drink, no burdens to carry, no battles to fight. How do I know it? Know it! I know it because God says so: "They shall hunger no more, God says so: "They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more, neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat, for the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall lead them to living fountains of water and God shall wipe all tears from their

Tell me, O Gethsemane and Golgotha! were there ever darker times han those? Like the booming of the midlight sea against the rock, th

SURGES OF CHRIST'S ANGUISH beat against the gates of eternity, to be echoed back by all the thrones of heaven and all the dungeons of hell. But the day of reward comes for Christ; all the pomp and dominion of this world are to be hung on his throne, uncrowned heads are to boy before him on whose head are many crowns and all the celestial worship is to come up at his feet, like the hummins of the forest, like the rushing of the waters. Hee the thundering of the seas, while all heaven, rising on their thrones, beat time with their rising on their thrones, boat time with their sceptres: "Hallelujah, for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth! Hallelujah, the king-doms of this world have become the king-doms of our Lord Jesus Christ."

That song of love, now low and far, Ere long shall swell from star to star: That light, the breaking day which tips The golden-spired Apocalypse.

Again, I learn from my subject that yents which seem to be the most insignificant may be momentous. Can you imaging anything more unimportant than the com-ing of a poor woman from Moab to Judga Can you imagine anything more trivial than the fact that this Ruth just happened to alight—as they say—just happened to alight on that field of Boaz! Yet al ages, all generations, have an interest in the fact that she was to become an ances-tress of the Lord Jesus Christ, and all nations and kingdoms must look at that one and eternal satisfaction. So it is in your history and in mine: events that you thought of no importance at all have been That casual conversaof great moment. ion, that accidental meeting—you did not think of it again for a long while; but how t changed all the current of your life! It seemed to be of no importance that Jubal invented rude instruments of music, calling them harp and organ; but they were the introduction of all the world's minstrelsy; and as you hear the vibration of a stringed instrument, even after the fingers have been taken away from it, so all music new of the number of court for the stringer. now of lute and drum and cornet is only the LONG-CONTINUED STRAINS of Jubal's harp and Jubal's organ. It seemed to be a matter of very little importance that Tubal Cain learned the uses of copper and iron; but that rude foundry of ancient days has its echo in the rattle of Birmington machinery, and the roar and bang of factories on the Merrimac.

Again, I see in my subject an illustration of the beauty of female industry. Behold Buth tolling in the bayes, field under the

Ruth toiling in the harvest-field under the hot sun, or at noon taking plain bread with the reapers, or eating the parched corn which Boaz handed to her. The customs of society, of course, have changed, and without the hardships and exposure to which Ruth was arbitated. which Ruth was subjected, every intelligent woman will find something to do. I know there is a sickly sentimentality on this subject. In some families there are persons of no practical service to the household or community; and though there are so many wees all around about them in the world, they spend their time languishing over a new puttern or west investigation. over a new pattern, or burst into tears at midnight over the story of some lover who shot himself! They would not deign to look at Ruth carrying back the barley on her way home to her mother-in-law, Naomi. All this fastidiousness may seem to do very her property went, and she got old and All this fastidiousness may seem to do very poor, she was not troubled very much with well while they are under the shelter of their father's house; but when the sharp winter of misfortune comes, what of these butterflies! Persons under indulgent pa-rentage may get upon themselves habits of indolence; but when they come out into practical life their soul will recoil with dis-cust and chaerir. They will feel in their gust and chagrin. They will feel in their hearts what the poel so severely satirized Folks are so awkward, things so impolite.

They're elegantly pained from mern till night.
Through that gate of indolence how many mon and women have marched, useless on earth, to a destroyed eternity! Spinola said to Sir Horace Vere: "Of what did your brother die?" "Of having nothing to do," was the answer. "Ah!" said Spinola, "that's enough to kill any general of us." Madame de Stael did a world of work in her time; and one day, while she was seated amid instruments of music, all of which she had mastered, and amid manuscript books which she had written, some one said to her: "How do you find time to attend to all these things?" "Oh," she replied, "these are not the things! am proud of. My chief boast is in the fact that I have seventeen trades, by any one of which I could make a liyelihood if necessary." And if in secular spheres there is so much to be if in secular spheres there is so much to be done, in spiritual work how vast the field How many dying all around about us with out one word of comfort! Ah, my friends, you could go into the busiest day and busiest week of your life and find golden opportunities, which, gathered, might make a whole sheaf for the Lord's garner. CRANE AND TRACY.

Report of the Debate at Lee Academy, near Cleburne, Saturday. Correspondence of the Guzette.

CLEBURNE, JOHNSON COUNTY, TEX., Aug. To-day at Lee academy, six miles cast of here. Senator Crane of this city and Harry Tracy of Dallas locked horns on the Harry Iracy of Damas locked florins on the sub-treasury bill. It had been arranged for Evan Jones to meet Mr. Crane, but from some cause he did not put in an appearance. The discussion was red-hot. The Third partyites objected to any cheering, but when Crane began to put good old Democratic doctrines into the cars of his hearers and expose the fallacies of the scheme he (Tracy) advocated, the crowd almost went wild, and goed old Democrats who had be come uneasy lest this county go over to the enemy, recovered their equilibrium. It was a brilliant victory for Crane and the Johnson county Democracy, and many of the sub-treasuryites admit that the little insured. Loss, $2500; partially insured.

WANTS TO KNOW ABOUT

Dublin / Sale !

Waco, Tex. July 30, 1891.

Dear Sir---What kind of property are you going to sell at Dublin Tex., August 6 and 7? Myself and a few friends are looking over Texas for a location, and desire this information about Dublin. An early reply will oblige yours, etc., T. J. HAWKINS.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 1, '91. Mr. T. J. Hawkins

DEAR SIR--The Dublin Land and Improvement Co. will sell to the highest bidder at public auction, August 6 and 7, about 9000 acres of rich, dark sandy loam (convenient to Dublin) cut up in tracts of 80 160 and 320 acres each.

Also, one tract of 56 acres adjoining the town of Dublin, now used as Fair Grounds and Race Track--just the thing to cut up into residence

And about 500 Gile Edged residence lots, which Jie "jam" up to and in the town of Dublin. These lots run from 80 to 105 feet front and from 120 to 180 feet in depth. No 25-feet lots in this sale.

Hope to see you and your friends present at the sale. The property is all gilt edged, and to be appreciated must be seen. Yours truly,

JOHN HOWARD.

Irishman from the Twenty-first district is too much for their speakers. They have heretofore avoided joint discussions, and it is the general opinion that they will not again express a desire to discuss their visionary schemes, especially with Crane.

Mexican News.

Special to the Gazette City of Maxico, Aug. 2.—The rich iron mines of Amacurao, in the state of Guerro, will be enlarged soon and worked to their full capacity.

The congress of economists still continues in session, and are discussing plans of reorm in internal taxation. The government of the City of Mexico has placed in the national bank here the amount necessary to pay quarterly interest on the city's indebtedness. The Press publishes a rumor that Gomez Faricas, minister of finance, has resigned, but it is not confirmed officially The police frustrated a duel between two Spanish women, the outgrowth of jealousy.

Relieved of His Roll.

Special to the Gazette. Eagle Pass, Maverick County, Tex., Aug. 2.—Yesterday James Alsop flashed a roll of money in a saloon, boarded the pas-senger coach of the Southern Pacific train three hours before it pulled out for San Antonio, and went to sleep. He awoke be-fore the gong sounded and his money was gone. One party has been arrested, and $00 has been recovered.

Destroyed by Lightning.

Special to the Gazette. SAN ANTONIO, TEX., Aug. 2.-During the storm last night lightning struck a boarding house, kept by Mrs. Rose, on the corner of Nacogdoches and East Houston streets. None of the inmates were injured. The Many a Fortune Has
